T 7350 Communicating Thermostat

Alerton's T7350 communicating, programmable thermostat is the perfect fit for nearly any application. Bring yesterday's buildings up to today's standards by adding this to existing or new installations. The T7350 can work standalone as a programmable thermostat, or add the FLG7350 subbase and transform it into a BACnet communicating thermostat. The versatility of this device allows you to perform scheduling functions, contains a humidity sensor, allows for remote sensor inputs and can come with up to 3 heating & 3 cooling stages or even modulating output control. With the subbase it becomes a communicating thermostat that can be viewed and accessed remotely via the internet. This is a cost effective manner to provide remote control and maintenance to any building. Make sure to contact your Jacco representative today about the T7350 and get your buildings online.
